Social and Personal

The most interesting society event of today will be the marriage of Miss Alice Elliott Doyle, daughter of the late Charles E. Doyle and Mrs. Doyle, to John Hamilton Chamberlayne, which will take place at half-past 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, 314 Park Avenue. Invitations to the ceremony have been limited to the two families and a few intimate friends. The Rev. Robert A. Gibson, Bishop of Virginia, assisted by the Rev. J. J. Grady, pastor of Holy Trinity Church, will officiate, and an orchestra will play the wedding music and for the reception following the ceremony, at 9 o'clock. The house will be decorated in white and yellow flowers and palms, and the walls will be hung with smilax. Palms and lighted candles will form an improvised altar at one end of the drawing room, where the ceremony will be performed, and the mantels will be arranged with baskets of yellow chrysanthemums. A big gilt basket of yellow chrysanthemums will be used as a centerpiece for the table in the dining room, and the lights will be shaded in yellow.

The bride will be given away by her brother, Robert E. Doyle, with whom she will enter the drawing room. Her gown of white satin is trimmed in duchesse and rose point lace and made with a court train, and her veil of illusion will be arranged with orange blossoms. She will carry a presentation bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Dr. Churchill Gibson Chamberlayne, brother of the bridegroom, will be best man.

The ceremony was held in the parlor of the home, and the table in the dining room was set with a centerpiece of yellow chrysanthemums and candles shaded in yellow.

The bride and her attendants descended the wide staircase and entered the parlor to the strains of the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin," played by Miss Elton Warren Morris, through an aisle of cedar roses held by the two ushers, Jack Barrett and Vernon Kibinger. MONAGUE AT BRISTOL.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Bristol, Va., October 16.—Former Governor Montague was the guest of the Wilson-Ayer Club here last night and spoke to an audience of 600 men and women in the Harmon Theatre. The Bristol Military Band furnished music. The ex-governor was introduced by Mayor George M. Warren.

Mr. Montague spoke for an hour and thirty minutes, discussing the more important issues of the campaign and pointing out the material differences between the Democratic and Republican parties as regards the principal measures that affect the American people. His plea for the success of Woodrow Wilson as an ideal leader was listened to with keen interest, and his speech was punctuated with liberal applause. He urged hearty support of General Ayer, and said he should like to see a man of his calibre elected to Congress from the Ninth District. At the same hour the Republicans had a mass-meeting in the new City Hall. The speaker at this meeting was Hon. George L. Doane, former secretary of the State of Iowa and ex-minister to China. He was introduced by District Chairman C. S. Pendleton. Mr. Doane made a stirring argument from the standpoint of a Republican.

GLOSSARY OF MOTOR MAKING
Authority on Automobiles Compiles Talk Guide—Auto Terms Are Listed.

Can you talk intelligently upon the subject of automobiles?
If you cannot you can hardly be justified in calling your vocabulary "up-to-date."

It lacks some of the newest words in the English language, and whether you own a car, expect to own one or only want to understand the news of the day and the conversation of your friends, you ought to know these motor-made words.

In endeavoring to introduce the public to an entirely new dictionary, Dr. Harry Thurston Peck, secured the aid of Julian Chase, Ph. B., the editor of the "Motor" Magazine, who compiled a glossary of words applied to autos.

This gives some idea of the completeness of this latest dictionary, which is absolutely up-to-date from cover to cover.

This dictionary is NOT published by the original publishers of Webster's Dictionary, or by their successors.

The book is known as the New Websterian 1912 Dictionary, Illustrated, and is brought up to the present in every particular. It is obtainable for six coupons clipped from The Times-Dispatch and a small expense bonus.

If you should happen not to be interested in motors you will find plenty of other new auto words to interest you. Start clipping now.

ALDERMAN SPEAKS AT 'COLLEGE HOUR'
President of University Talks to Students About Books and Reading.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Charlottesville, Va., October 16.—President Alderman was at his best to-day when he talked to fully 600 students in Cabell Hall, University of Virginia, about books and reading. He was the principal speaker at the first College Hour of the present session.

The students, old and new, sang the college songs with spirit and cheered each speaker with enthusiasm. They sat in sections arranged by departments. It was one of the most interesting and largely attended College Hours held since that phase of university life was established.

President Alderman said that in spite of the exciting events pending and to come, such as the world's series, the presidential election and the Vanderbilt game, he wanted to call the attention of the students to the importance of a subject that was, perhaps, the most important one in the lives of men, judged by the results to be obtained from a proper consideration of it. He referred to a man's relation to books.

"Readers are of three kinds," he said. "First, the one who reads simply to be prepared to say 'Yes' when asked if he has read such and such a book. The second variety is identified with the man who reads to be able to get facts to show you that you are in error. The third kind of reader, and the genuine reader, is he who reads for the love of books and reading. He is the 'gentle reader.'"

"The love of books," continued Dr. Alderman, "inspires one of the high pleasures of life. No man who goes through college or university without acquiring a love of books for their own sake misses, perhaps, the greatest blessing that life at such a time can bestow."

President Alderman did not attempt to "lay out" a course of reading. He thought it wise rather to urge one to think of books as a source of pleasure and to get to know him well. In some ways, he said, the love of books is a life-long companion, and it is a source of pleasure and help in all the work of life.

"Spend this session in the company of a great character," he urged. "Read the life of Darwin, Lee or Jefferson, or Gladstone, and you will find your spirit enriched by the association."

Dr. Alderman closed his short address by adding that every cultured man should cultivate, if only in a very small way, a love of poetry.

C. D. Ladd, president of the law faculty, presided at the meeting. Carlington Williams, president of the General Athletic Association, spoke about the association of the students with the work of the university.

Head Coach Speed Elliot told about the football team, how earnestly the men were working and how bright the prospects were for a winning team.

FAITH IN PRAYER IS SORELY NEEDED

Ministers Are Censured for Their Lack of Belief in Its Efficacy.

Louisville, Ky., October 16.—Censure for ministers of the Christian Church who the speaker said, need more abundant belief and faith in the efficacy of prayer, was expressed to-day in the president's address to the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ, meeting here in connection with the international convention of the church. President R. A. Long, of Kansas, was unable to attend, and the address was presented by Judge J. N. Haymaker, of Wichita, Kan.

The four years' activities of the Brotherhood, according to the report of the secretary, E. E. Elliott, of Kansas City, have been responsible directly for the sending of 250 missionaries to the foreign field. There are 343 affiliated local chapters of the brotherhood, and 592 men's organizations in the Christian Churches inspired by the brotherhood.

The brotherhood meeting divided interest to-day with the sessions of the corresponding secretary of the board, which held three sessions at the First Regiment Armory, attended by thousands.

Conditions in various home and foreign fields were presented by numerous speakers.

Mrs. M. E. Harlan, of Indianapolis, corresponding secretary of the board, reported a total membership of 7,821, while the treasurer's report showed disbursements for the year ending October 1 of nearly $353,000.
